

Who Needs Homework?

I strongly believe that students should not be doing homework. My reasons for this are: an extra hour of homework may affect kid's eyesight and they may end up with glasses. Another issue is that students miss out on spending time with their family, also students already spend 6 hours a day working hard. Why should they need more work?

My first reason against children completing homework is, an extra hour of homework can strain kid's eyesight with more reading. Doctors state that homework is extremely damaging on children's eyesight and has to be stopped now!

Another reason why homework is a waste of time, is students should be spending more time with their family at home. When children's mums and dads get home from work, they need a break too. Parents love spending time with their family and having fun too, not sitting down with children trying to complete their homework.

Lastly, students already spend 6 hours a day working hard. Why should they get an extra 2 hours of work? Students don't want to sit for 2 hours each day! Don't you think they need a break too?

In conclusion, do you really believe that homework is necessary? Homework affects students' eyesight. Do you want your child wearing glasses unnecessarily? Also, students need precious time with families. You don't want your child doing another 2 hours of work at home when they already spend 6 hours at school. Why should they need to do more work?

I hope I have convinced you today that homework is unnecessary. Do your child a favour and ring the school and tell them your child doesn't need homework anymore. Thankyou.
